Glover Country

Patterdale was once home to artist John Glover and where he created many of his masterpieces.

Often referred to as the father of Australian landscape painting, he left a successful career in England and arrived here in 1831 (aged 64), staying until his death in 1849. By rogaining here, you will walk in Glover's footsteps and experience the landscape he loved. For more infomation, go to: www.glovercountry.com.au
